

StudentCover Offers Affordable Protection for Children

Accidents don't discriminate between adults and children, which is why it's important to make sure your kids are covered by suitable accident insurance to provide support if anything happens.

Child Accident Statistics

Australia may have a world class health service, but accidents and injuries can still be serious business when they affect children. Research published by the Child Accident Prevention Foundation of Australia reveals that around 5,000 children require some form of medical attention each day nationwide, with an average of 170 being admitted to hospital. Children are at higher risk of certain types of accidents than adults, due to their natural curiosity, but the range of insurance options available for parents to take out is very limited compared to that for adults.

StudentCover from EBM

EBM developed StudentCover in 1995 to offer a cost-effective and comprehensive option for parents concerned about the wellbeing of their children. StudentCover is designed to be affordable for the parents of Australia's 3,500,000 full time students in more than 9,000 schools, providing cover for injuries occurring on school premises and during sporting activities, which are not typically covered by the school's own insurance, as well as cover outside of school for a wide range of events. StudentCover can also be taken out by schools and covers emergency transport costs and relief if a parent or guardian dies and is no longer able to pay fees.
